Bachelor of Science in Business Administration

The skills necessary to keep abreast of the dynamic global economy change at an ever-quickening pace. Professionals must be competent in not only the technical arena but also understand the "soft skills" needed to effectively manage projects and people.

Careers in Business Administration

Those who complete a bachelor’s degree in business administration will have a global perspective along with the analytical and technical skills needed to compete in today’s challenging marketplace. These students also are positioned to enter graduate programs in business, law and medicine.

Jindal School students must complete an internship as a requirement for their major. The Jindal School’s fully staffed Career Management Center (CMC), working in tandem with the University’s Career Center, helps students prepare for and seek internships, as well as post-graduation employment. Both centers are staffed with licensed counselors who provide students with strategies for mastering job interviews, writing professional cover letters and resumes and connecting with campus recruiters, among other services.

Business Administration at UT Dallas

A student in business administration can choose a general business administration degree or concentrate in one of these areas:

- Business Economics
- Energy Management
- General Business
- Innovation and Entrepreneurship
- Organizational Behavior and Human Resources
- Real Estate Investment Management
- Risk Management and Insurance
- Sales

A 120-hour curriculum leads to a degree in business administration. All undergraduate degrees require a central core of 42 hours. In the core courses, students have an opportunity to learn theories and analytical techniques to apply to the functional areas of business, such as finance and marketing. Students are exposed to the global influences on business activities and to social and political factors that impact business behavior.

A capstone course in strategic management allows students to solve real-world business problems. Students are also required to take courses outside the Jindal School in order to broaden their educational experience in preparation for leadership roles as professionals and/or managers in modern business organizations.

Living Learning Community

The Naveen Jindal School of Management Living Learning Community is a special opportunity for incoming freshmen interested in pursuing a business degree. These select students live together in on-campus housing, attend classes together and participate as a group in social activities. For information, contact Associate Dean Marilyn Kaplan at mkaplan@utdallas.edu.

Management Honors Program

The Charles and Nancy Davidson Management Honors Program (DMHP) gives select undergraduate students the opportunity to enhance their experience in the Naveen Jindal School of Management. DMHP students receive opportunities to improve their leadership skills, and work closely with UT Dallas professors.

DMHP program benefits include:

- Smaller class sizes
- Professional development events
- Community service events
- Scholarships
- Travel opportunities
- Honors notation on diploma

Fast-Track Options in the Jindal School

All undergraduate degrees in the Jindal School offer a fast-track option. These programs allow students to save up to 12 credit hours in completing an undergraduate and master’s degree.
Students with qualifying grades embark on the fast-track option in their senior year of their undergrad program. Pursuing a fast-track BS/MS or BS/MBA requires careful course selection and academic dedication but opens up additional career opportunities for those students who complete the program.
