

Bachelor of Science in Healthcare Management

The next generation of healthcare leaders will be required to have specialized knowledge and skills to compete, to lead and to succeed. Students can become part of this next generation of leadership by entering JSOM's Bachelor of Science in Healthcare Management degree program. It prepares students by combining the strength of seasoned academic researchers and experienced practitioners in the field.

Careers in Healthcare Management

Graduates of the Healthcare Management Program seek careers in varied areas, including quality assurance, health information technology, clinic management and human resources.

An internship is an excellent way to gain valuable work experience while assessing which area of healthcare is right for you. Jindal School students must complete an internship as a requirement for their major. The Jindal School's fully staffed Career Management Center (CMC), working in tandem with the University's Career Center, helps students prepare for and seek internships, as well as post-graduation employment. Both centers are staffed with licensed counselors who provide students with strategies for mastering job interviews, writing professional cover letters and resumes and connecting with campus recruiters, among other services.

Healthcare Management at UT Dallas

A 120-hour curriculum leads to a degree in Healthcare Management. It provides students with both a practical and educational base to become leaders and skilled decision makers within the industry. The introductory class on healthcare introduces students to the breadth and scope of the industry. Additional healthcare-specific classes focus on healthcare accounting, information systems, economics, law and regulatory environments.

Business classes involve a variety of disciplines that are relevant to healthcare that includes marketing, information technology, organizational behavior, operations management, international business and strategic planning. Students can also select from a variety of elective classes that address areas such as human resources, supply-chain management, and project management, not to mention new classes that respond to an ever-changing and dynamic industry.

The Healthcare Management Association (HMA) is an active student organization associated with the program. Membership in the HMA is essential to stay connected and informed of events, internships and career opportunities. Prominent DFW healthcare professionals regularly visit campus to share their industry experience and check out up-and-coming talent.

High-achieving undergrads are eligible to take masters-level courses in Healthcare Management through the Fast-Track program and earn both BS and MS degrees in as little as five years.
