What is the Young Adult Social Communication Group?

Individuals with social communication disorders secondary to high functioning autism often struggle with social communication issues. The social communication demands of college and work, especially for a young adult with social communication disorders, can be very challenging.

The Young Adult Social Communication Group supports young adults ages 18 to 30 in developing important skills necessary in the college and work settings. The program is led by a licensed speech-language pathologist with the support of graduate student clinicians.

The group meets weekly to discuss social topics and to practice social and communication skills needed for social, academic and work life. Topics include:

- Conversation skills with peers and authority figures
- Time management
- Non-verbal communication skills
- Professional communication skills
- Job interviewing skills
- Communication during conflict
- Topic management
- Use of abstract language
- Social Thinking skills

When:

Mondays | 4:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Available fall, spring and summer semesters

Where:

Callier Center Richardson
2895 Facilities Way | Richardson, Texas 75080

Cost:

$300 per fall and spring session / $150 for summer session + $75 nonrefundable deposit
(Free for UT Dallas students.)

Contact:

Christina Gollis
cgollis@utdallas.edu | 972.883.3608

---

Callier Center for Communication Disorders

The Callier Center for Communication Disorders helps people communicate throughout their lives — to hear and be heard, to understand and be understood. For more than 50 years we have provided treatment, training and research to help people of all ages hear, speak and connect with others.