

Start Building Your Section

Once you've requested your eLearning section, you will now see it listed in your Course List. Click on the section name to begin building your eLearning section.

Please Note: Students are able to access eLearning sections on the first day of class. This means that if you are developing your content in the live section, once classes begin, students will be able to see your development.

The very first time you click on your section, you will be asked what content you wish to assign to your section. You are presented with the following options:

- Set up a blank course
This option is to be used when you want to begin developing from scratch with a completely blank section.
- Copy content from another course (or section)
This option is used when you want to reuse content from a previous section (for example using your Spring content for your upcoming Fall class). This option will copy over all content without any student data.
- Assign a template to this section
This option is used if you are working with eLearning templates.
- Import content from file
This option is used if you are importing content from an exported course file.

Click [Continue].

You now see the Quick Start screen, which allows you to choose what tools you wish to use in your eLearning class.

Check the boxes for the tools you wish to use, then scroll down to the bottom of the screen and click [Save].

Your eLearning section is now ready for you to add content.

Best Practices Tip:
Only turn on those tools you plan on using. This helps keep your course design clean and less confusing for your students.
