

Masters in Public Policy

Get an education that will help you succeed in this dynamic, global workforce. What makes a professional career in public policy unique is the emphasis on tackling "wicked problems" -- the challenging issues that define the public agenda and call for talented individuals, like you, to devote their efforts to finding solutions. More than a half a million employees will leave the government in the next five years, every firm has a global component, and non-profits need people with a broad perspective. You will learn economic and statistical analyses as well as communication skills that will help you advance in the career of your choice. We look forward to helping you reach your goals. Welcome to UTDallas, EPPS and Public Policy.

Study with internationally recognized faculty

Bobby C Alexander, PhD
Columbia University

Brian J.L. Berry, PhD
University of Washington

Marie I Chevrier, PhD
Harvard University

Lloyd J Dumas, PhD
Columbia University

Euel W Elliott, PhD
Duke University

Donald A Hicks, PhD
University of North Carolina

Jennifer S Holmes, PhD
University of Minnesota

Paul A Jargowsky, PhD
Harvard University

Murray J Leaf, PhD
University of Chicago

Sheila Amin Gutiérrez de Piñeres, PhD
Duke University

Todd Sandler, PhD
SUNY Binghamton

Richard K Scotch, PhD
Harvard University

Sheryl L Skaggs, PhD
North Carolina State University

Paul E Tracy, PhD
University of Pennsylvania

MPP at UTDallas

The Masters in Public Policy degree prepares you to understand, and analyze the social and legislative ramifications of decisions and actions of governments that address a wide variety of problems and issues. You will learn the workings of the principal policy making institutions at the national, sub-national and local levels as you study policy formation and implementation.

The program is 36 hours:

- 18 hours of required core
- 9 hours of prescribed electives in one field of study
 - ✓ Criminology
 - ✓ Health Policy
 - ✓ Domestic Social Policy
 - ✓ International Conflict & Security
 - ✓ Legal
- 9 hours of electives

Detailed information is available at:

<http://epps.utdallas.edu/pppe/>

Admissions requirements:

Students are considered for admission based on their entire profile. A completed application must contain:

- ApplyTexas application
- GRE scores
- Letters of recommendation
- Essay
- Baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution

Students are admitted on a rolling basis.

Information regarding deadlines is available on the UTDallas website.

Prepare yourself for a career in the ever changing global workforce

Consulting
Marketing research
Account management
Financial analysis
Non-profit sector
International organizations
National government
State & local government
Program Managers
Humanitarian agencies
Development agencies
International Trade
International Finance
Lobbying
Education

Contact Information

Professor Marie Chevrier
Associate Program Head
Chevrier@utdallas.edu
972-883-2727

Ms. Judy Robertson
Program Assistant
judy@utdallas.edu
972-883-6406

The University of Texas at Dallas
The School of Economic,
Political and Policy Sciences
800 West Campbell Rd., GR 31
Richardson, TX 75080
<http://epps.utdallas.edu/>