

Doctor of Philosophy in Public Policy and Political Economy

In today's world, public policy, politics, business and the economy are intertwined. The PhD in PPPE emphasizes the integration and application of theory to practice. Graduates will be prepared to conduct interdisciplinary research and to teach at both the graduate and undergraduate levels in public policy, urban affairs, and planning programs. They also are prepared for demanding analytical and administrative positions in domestic and international research and policy institutions and in the private sector. Our interdisciplinary degree offers internships, critical analysis, analytical methods, and communication skills that will help you succeed regardless of the changes in the world around you. We look forward to helping you reach your goals. Welcome to UTDallas, EPPS and PPPE.

Study with internationally recognized faculty

Bobby C Alexander, PhD
Columbia University

Brian J.L. Berry, PhD
University of Washington

Marie I Chevrier, PhD
Harvard University

Alexander Clark, PhD
Stanford University

Lloyd J Dumas, PhD
Columbia University

Euel W Elliott, PhD
Duke University

Donald A Hicks, PhD
University of North Carolina

Jennifer S Holmes, PhD
University of Minnesota

Paul A Jargowsky, PhD
Harvard University

Murray J Leaf, PhD
University of Chicago

Sheila Amin Gutiérrez de Piñeres, PhD
Duke University

Todd Sandler, PhD
SUNY Binghamton

Richard K Scotch, PhD
Harvard University

Sheryl L Skaggs, PhD
North Carolina State University

Paul E Tracy, PhD
University of Pennsylvania

PhD in PPPE at UTDallas

The Ph.D. in Public Policy and Political Economy is an interdisciplinary, research degree. It emphasizes rigorous education in economic, social, and political research. Graduates are expected to have an in-depth understanding of theories of political economy, analytical methods, and to develop professional competence in a substantive field of public policy. Specific fields of study include-

- Criminology
- Development
- International Political Economy
- International Security and Conflict
- Social Policy
- Business and Public Policy

Detailed information is available at:
<http://epps.utdallas.edu/pppe/>

Admissions requirements:
Students are considered for admission based on their entire profile. A completed application must contain:

- ApplyTexas application
- GRE scores
- Letters of recommendation
- Essay
- Baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution

Students are admitted on a rolling basis. Information regarding deadlines is available on the UTDallas website.

PPPE is proud of its alumni.

Join our network of

CEOs
Deans
Professors
Center Directors
Policy Analysts
Marketing Analysts
Consultants
Research Associates
High level Government Officials

For a more detailed list go to:
<http://epps.utdallas.edu/pppe/>

Contact Information

Dr. Jennifer Holmes
Associate Program Head
jholmes@utdallas.edu
972-883-6843

Ms. Judy Robertson
Program Assistant
judy@utdallas.edu
972-883-6406

The University of Texas at Dallas
The School of Economic,
Political and Policy Sciences
800 West Campbell Rd., GR 31
Richardson, TX 75080
<http://epps.utdallas.edu/>