

The Dallas Morning News
Saturday, April 12, 2008

Kings of the chessboard

It's an intercollegiate Final Four of brains, not brawn. But the arena of play — the chessboard — is hypercompetitive just the same. For the second year in a row, the University of Texas at Dallas has proved up to the task, retaining its national chess championship in Baltimore on Sunday. Only four months earlier, the UTD chess team won its second consecutive Pan American championship. The double repeat is unprecedented. Give us a "C!" Give us a "H!"

