ACADEMIC ALLIES

The Ackerman Center for Holocaust Studies and the Center for U.S.-Latin America Initiatives (CUSLAI) are pleased to announce an academic collaboration with multiple Holocaust Museums in Latin America.

In January, the Ackerman Center and CUSLAI formed an academic alliance with the Museo Memoria y Tolerancia (The Museum of Memory and Tolerance) in Mexico City. The partnership will jointly present scholarly lectures, symposiums, conferences and workshops and sponsor student internships. This will bring together three distinguished institutions dedicated to studying the Holocaust, genocide and human rights.

Earlier this month, Dr. Nils Roemer, Director of the Ackerman Center, and Pedro González, CUSLAI Research Assistant, traveled to Guatemala City, Guatemala to attend multiple meetings with the administration for the Museo del Holocausto Guatemala (Museum of Holocaust, Guatemala) and leaders in the field of Holocaust education, human rights and social justice to discuss drafting collaboration agreements.

Internships with the Museo Memoria y Tolerancia will be open to UT Dallas undergraduate and graduate students. These internships would be ideal for students interested in Holocaust and genocide studies, public history, translation studies or human rights.

(continued on page 2)
The Ackerman Center is committed to teaching the history and the legacy of the Holocaust.

The Museo Memoria y Tolerancia is dedicated to educating the public about the Holocaust, genocide and human rights.

The Center for U.S.-Latin America Initiatives concentrates on strengthening cultural connections with an emphasis on human rights.

The Museo del Holocausto in Guatemala is the first Holocaust Museum in Central America and is dedicated to teaching the Holocaust to new generations in order to learn from the past to prevent future atrocities.