Office of Diversity and Community Engagement Helps Students

The University of Texas at Dallas has a long-standing commitment to diversity and inclusion. The Office of Diversity and Community Engagement (OCDEM) plays a crucial role in fostering a welcoming and supportive environment for all students. The OCDEM supports initiatives that enhance diversity, equity, and inclusion across the university.

One of the key programs is the Diversity and Community Engagement Scholars (DCES) Program. This program provides scholarships and support to students who are committed to advancing diversity and inclusion at UT Dallas. The DCES Program not only helps students financially but also offers them opportunities to engage with the campus community and contribute to a more inclusive campus culture.

The impact of the DCES Program is significant. By providing support and mentorship, the program helps students to thrive and succeed while also contributing to the broader university community. The DCES Program exemplifies UT Dallas's commitment to preparing students to be leaders and changemakers in their fields.

For more information about the OCDEM and its programs, please visit the university's official website or contact the appropriate office for further details.