

Traveling to the U.S. from Abroad

For students who are traveling to UT Dallas for the spring 2021 semester, and for those who are traveling abroad during the winter break and returning for the spring 2021 semester, please be informed that University Housing will follow CDC guidelines on quarantine protocols. Current guidelines do not require quarantine upon return to the United States. However, this guidance could change, and students returning from abroad should be prepared to quarantine for up to a 14-day period prior to moving to campus.

More information about locations to stay prior to returning to campus will be provided on the University Housing website at a later date.

If a quarantine period is required, students also will be asked to provide University Housing with an official document, such as a boarding pass or flight itinerary, that includes their date of arrival into the United States. This document must be provided before students are allowed to move into their housing assignment. We also may ask students to provide the location that they chose to complete the self-quarantine requirement.

We appreciate your understanding and cooperation.
